

SEEKING GRADUATE STUDENTS to serve on UNIVERSITY HEARING BOARDS

University Hearing Boards are responsible for hearing cases of students who have allegedly violated University Policy

Apply Online by February 1, 2021

University Academic Governance bodies at MSU are looking for Graduate Student applicants to serve on hearing boards for the 2021-22 academic year. The term starts May, 2021.

Why apply?

Because graduate student voices are often underrepresented on campus. By getting involved, you can help shape decisions that can positively impact graduate student life. Hearing Boards require graduate student participation in order to render decisions.

Represent graduate students. Gain valuable experience. Expand your network.

AUSB

The All-University Student Hearing Board hears cases involving alleged violations in and around campus living units that do not rise to the level of a suspension or dismissal, and cannot be heard by another board or involve graduate students. AUSB typically meets on Thursdays evenings (when classes are in session).

USAB

The University Student Appeals Board reviews the disciplinary files of decisions made by other hearing boards and administrators when an appeal is filed. USAB seldom meets with the students and/or staff involved in the cases. USAB has the authority to reverse, modify, and uphold prior decisions. USAB typically meets on Monday or Friday afternoons or as needed.

SFSB

The Student-Faculty Staff Hearing Board hears cases involving serious allegations that warrant consideration of suspension or dismissal (e.g., issues involving safety and security, sale of drugs, harassment, assault, and weapons). SFSB typically meets on Tuesday evenings when classes are in session.
